

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The City Treasurer of Salem, Mass., has hanged himself. Have his books been examined?

The wheelbarrow man is once more winging his way across the continent. We are anxiously looking to see if there isn't to be an Indian outbreak shortly. Those things are handy sometimes.

Another murderer says he is going to Heaven cross-lots. This business is getting monotonous. Decent people will begin to check their baggage for the other place shortly to get into good society.

The term "honorable bilks," applied to the leading spirits of the Constitutional Party of California by Kearney is beginning to stick to them, and will probably be their designation through the approaching conflict. An apt name is a splendid thing in a campaign.

There is a railroad in Peru which cost $32,000,000, on which only one train a week is run. Wonder if they charge fare and freights according. If they used the Nevada railroads seedle shippers would be compelled to give the merchandise as part payment, the rest secured by real estate.

The opium habit has grown to such proportion in China that the Emperor has issued an edict to stop it altogether. In China it will be stopped, but in America the curse will be winked at until the youth of the land are slaves to a habit which will swamp health, life in one unnatural grave. A fearful responsibility rests somewhere. Parents, where?

Henry R. Mighels, the bright editor of the Carson Appeal, is dying of an incurable disease, and, tis said that his life will not be prolonged until the coming June. To the craft among whom he has labored and been looked up to as one of the brightest and best, this news comes like a pall, chilling the heart and making sad the soul. We hope the dread visito. may be warded off for many years.

Col. Dean, who is confident that he knows whereof he speaks, says there are three separate and distinct bonanzas already discovered on the Comstock, which are being held back until the managers get a good ready on. He says that Keene will be out here shortly then look out, for the biggest stock deal ever witnessed will be inaugurated. A booming market just now would help the boys considerably.

FACTS, YOU BET.

There is a pleasing freshness about the customs of Reno, which surprise and delight the dweller in a civilized community. The New York Herald will be sending Stanley to explore Washoe county ere long.—[Virginia Chronicle.]

Explore what? Our mines? If so, Stanley would find a hundred worthier than he now delving in hill and valley uncovering the wealth that in time may rival the Comstock. Our agricultural wealth? He would find broad acres of as fertile land as the sun shines upon already tilled by brawny hands. Our tar bucket? Even there he would find that Jones, Howard and Spears have traveled before him and left nothing more to reveal. We guess Stanley would find his occupation gone, for our customs are to make the earth yield its treasures of gold and grain by honest toil and compel wrong doers to behave, or suffer. Can the City of Sin show a better record?

OLD DUMPS.

When mining was in its infancy, it was impossible to get more than half of the precious metals out of the ores of the Comstock, the rest being lost among the tailings. By this means millions of dollars drifted away into the canyons, where they have been allowed to lie for years undisturbed. Since then the restless mind of man has learned a great deal about mining and now they can save about ninety per cent. of the wealth of the rocks. This progress has brought to mind the loose way of reducing ores of a dozen years ago, and now the old tailings are being re-worked, with success. Little mills are being erected in various places for this purpose, and as a consequence much wealth that has been lost to the world all these years is being captured and directed into the arteries of trade. Another evidence that the world moves.

The first annual meeting of the California Press Association will be held in the Parlors of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on Wednesday, July 16, 1879, at 12 o'clock x.

CHURCHILL NOTES.

Stillwater—Its Location—Business Houses, Etc.

Stillwater, May 15th, 1879.
ED. JOURNAL.—As the columns of your brilliant sheet are occasionally besprinkled with the descriptions of the towns of our State, including their resources, places of amusement, institutions for the development of the Arts and the public edifices, the Churchill semi-occasional scribbler thought that perhaps a similar recital of the features of Churchill's capital city would be of interest to your numerous readers.

Can hardly be called an inland town. If Chicago is correctly styled the "Queen of the Lakes," Stillwater will, with equal impunity, be called the "Queen of the Sinks." It was with a case of the sublime intermingled with the ridiculous and absurd, that one of our citizens remarked that "He never was in but one seaport town and that was Stillwater." It is useless to remark that that bright light was from the cane swamps of Arkansas and that he had never been as far west as Wadsworth. Unfortunately he knows nothing of the charms and beauties of that illustrious city. He has never scented the sweet perfumeries of its floral yards, nor has he spent hours of bliss in its places of amusement. Had he known of the beauties and pastimes of the town he would have undoubtedly said, "I never was in but one large city and that was Wadsworth." But to return, Stillwater is beautifully situate on

THE RIGHT BANK

Of the slough bearing the same name, and about half way between those great inland seas known as the Sinks of the Carson. Its climate is of the most healthful and exhilarating type. In the morning there is invariably a refreshing breeze coming from the salty bosom of the sinks, bearing with it all the charming influences and beneficial results of regular sea breezes of the coast. Stillwater claims the honor of being the most healthful town in Nevada. Only one man was ever known to die there and he didn't drink whisky. The Coroner's verdict was that he came to his death from the want of whisky and breath. As a rule everyone that lives here drinks whisky, and those that can't drink it don't live here. The scenery around the town is of the most beautiful character—sagebrush and grease wood greet the vision as far as the eye can reach. Coyotes, jack rabbits and lizzards stare you in the face as you enter the outskirts of the city, the former making the night hideous with their incessant howl. But what town in Nevada does not have these auxiliaries; and Stillwater has only her share. Our town is bedecked with three imposing hotels—the Stillwater House bearing about the same relation to our town that

THE LAKE HOUSE

Does to Reno; being the principal resort of the court officers and attendants. The gentlemanly proprietor, Mr. Sanford, is the right man in the right place. He knows how to please or displease, sets out good grub, has a fine stable in connection with the house, and his cocktails have always the finest flavor. The S o k Exchange, Mr. Murphy proprietor, is a well constructed, well conducted, and well located house on the corner of Swamp street and Tule avenue. Here is where nearly all the drovers and cattle men make their headquarters. If one wishes to learn the latest invoice of stock either for the meat market or trade, the Stock Exchange is the place for him to enquire. If he wants a gentleman's saddle animal the agreeable host will point you out your man for a trade. The house is not calculated for the sole entertainment of hightoned officials and lawyers, but rather as an accommodation of the public at large. Of the Telegraph House, on Slough street, there is but little to be said, further than that it is a good, respectable house—calculated for the accommodation of mercantile and mining men. A telegraph office is carried on in connection with this house, and one of the best experts of the profession always in attendance. Although we have neither a railroad or daily stage, yet we are never behind in hearing the news of the day. Mr. Richards, one of the proprietors of the house, can as easily write off 35 words a minute as we can read them. There are several good reliable

MERCANTILE HOUSES,

All doing a safe and profitable business. It is said that one of Carson's business men, Mr. Samuel, is about to move his goods to our town and start another store. He has been down and taken a look at the country and pronounces it a promising location. He will carry on a wholesale cigar and liquor trade, as well as general merchandise. Of our churches but little can be said; but we have a church, and the church has a name, and in that name is something that implies going up. The church in a numerical sense is large—it has as many as twelve members, who meet to attend the sacrament twice a year, put on their "going up" robes, wash their feet, and eat hard tack for two days in succession. There is also something about the church's name concerning the seventh day or Saturday. We don't distinctly remember what it is, but they are always talking about making the last day of the week the first. That is all the church we have, so must be a "go-upist" or be nothing, and yet "mirable dictu," almost everyone profess to be nothing. But Stillwater has a future and that future will bring more churches, with more gospel truths and sound sense. If not, our community, we fear, will be morally insolvent. We will continue to drink lager and other stimulants on the seventh day, and run foot and horse races for whisky on Saturday. We will still chew tobacco and spit the juice, eat hog meat and mutton, drink tea and think "damn," just as though there were no "go-upists" among us. P. KEE.

On the arrival of the steamboat Fannie Lewis at Jefferson City, Missouri, on her way to Kansas with a cargo of colored refugees, ex Governor B Gratz Brown, Colonel Max Leaning and a crowd of Senators and Representatives went down to witness the sight. The Journal says: "Governor Brown was a careful observer of the scene and was evidently deeply impressed by it. When asked what it meant he said, "these people had been driven from their homes by shameful outrage." After that how the Democrats must rejoice that Brown was never elected Vice President by their party.

Senator Booth's term of office does not expire till March 3, 1881, hence the coming Legislature of California will not have the right to elect his successor, because another and subsequent Legislature will be held before the expiration of his term of office.

PREVENT RIDERS ON APPROPRIATION

BILLS.—Mr. Lapham, of New York, has introduced in the House a joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution of the United States, the text of which is as follows:

Whenever any appropriation bill shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, and shall be presented to the President for his approval, he may withhold his approval to any clause or clauses or provisions in such bill and approve the remainder, and in such case shall state his objections to the portions disapproved in the same manner as is provided in article I, section 7 of the constitution, and all provisions of said section, as to bills not approved, shall apply to the item or items so disapproved.

The measure was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

THE PRESIDENTIAL BATTLE.

THE WORK OF THE POLITICIANS.

(From the Milwaukee Sentinel (Republican).)
As the indication of the feeling in Wisconsin, a gentleman of keen observation, who has travelled extensively through the State for some months, gives as a result of his observations that the Grant feeling is confined to what may be termed politicians—men who now hold office or want to; that the masses of the people do not favor a third term. The "boom" comes from the fact that the politicians are the ones who come to the front and do the talking.

GENERAL GRANT IN THE SOUTH.

(From the Philadelphia Record (Independent).)
It is more than probable that the Southern States will send delegations to the Republican Convention firmly united in favor of General Grant so the only safe reliance for victory. With this marked advantage, it is doubtful whether the reasoning and sagacious members of the party and the more sensible of the Northern delegates will be able to stem the tide and prevent the selection of the travelled soldier as the party's standard bearer. The future promises much of interest in the line of President making.

BLAINE AND GARFIELD.

(From the Penn Monthly).
The two leaders in Congress, Blain and Garfield are either of them worthy of the nomination. For ourselves, we decidedly prefer the latter of the two in spite of our differing from him on many points of policy. He has the better manner, the gift of keeping on gentlemanly terms with both his friends and his enemies, and not so much of that Yankee adroitness which the ex-Pennsylvanian has acquired during his residence down East. And he has atoned for his one great mistake—his membership in the Cobden Club—by a staunch support of our industrial interests when assailed by Mr. Wood's tariff. Nor is he, either in soundness of moral principle or in general ability, the inferior of any American now in public life.

A NEW ENGLAND OPINION.

(From the Boston Herald (Independent).)
The New England Republicans, as a whole, have no choice. As their second choice they prefer Grant, but even to this there are great objections, and if he is nominated bolts can be depended upon. The Democrats at present go for Mr. Tilden because they believe, at least in this State, that he was once elected to the Presidency and defrauded thereof. His friends grow more numerous day by day, and if the result depended upon the party in New England it would not be doubtful. So much we might gather from our correspondents; so much we infer from the press. We are all liable to be mistaken, but it seems to us hardly possible, whatever the Democrats may do, that Grantism will ever again receive the indorsement of New England.

SHOT TO DEATH.

The execution of Wallace Wilkerson for the murder of William Baxter at Homansville, Utah, took place at Provo Utah, Friday, at 12 o'clock noon, in the Court House yard. He was stationed fifteen spaces from the executioners, four in number, who were concealed behind a screen, and seated on a chair, with a white target pinned over his heart. Behind the doomed man were railroads rails piled as high as his head. At the command of the United States Marshal four shots were fired, and Wilkerson raised to his feet and threw out his arms and fell, exclaiming, "My God! My God! They have missed it!" but did not expire till twenty-seven minutes after. Three shots entered the paper, one near the center and the other two on the edge about an inch apart, while the fourth struck his right arm and broke it.

Before the execution he made a particular request of the Marshal that his executioners should aim at his heart and make no bad shots. He also requested he should he should not be blindfolded, which was granted, and he faced the guns with stolid indifference. He was a Mormon and died in the faith. After the surgeon had pronounced him dead the remains were turned over to his wife and friends, who took them to Payson, Utah, where they will be buried to-morrow. This is the second execution by shooting in this Territory, the first being John D. Lee, for the Mountain Meadows massacre.

Eleanor Graves says that she has been divinely appointed Matrimonial Supervisor of California, with power to marry and separate lovers, and to generally direct the material affairs of the State. She has opened an office in San Francisco, and issued a proclamation, commanding all persons who intend entering wedlock to apply to her at once for permission. It is her intention, she says, to annul the marriages of several thousand couples in San Francisco alone.

A Suggestion.

We often hear it asked. What shall we do to make our State Fair attractive? How shall we collect as large a crowd on the grounds on another day, as when the ladies ride? We offer this suggestion: Nothing has a stronger attraction for the average American citizen than military display. Now let the Trustees offer a handsome prize for the best drilled squad of cavalry, not less than twenty men. Reno, Carson, Silver City, could each furnish a squad and Storey county several. The expense would not be great, and it would be a "field day" on the grounds that would add sundry shillings to the Society's treasury.

RENO.

A PIONEER'S LIFE.

The Career of the Late Charles A. Simmons—His Checkered Experience—From Affluence to Want—An Honest Miner—A Storekeeper—A Bankrupt.

A few days ago all that was mortal of Charley Simmons was laid away in the silent, hungry tomb, with no sorrowing heart near to weep as the cold clouds hid him away forever. His was like unto that of a thousand others, who have braved the dangers and privations of a pioneer life and have conquered the fair western land from the savage and made it a fit home for the gentle, pure and beautiful. When yet but a young man, Charley arrived on this coast in 1846, a member of the Stevenson regiment, which was sent out to take part in the Mexican war, then waging. The war closing, together with the discovery of gold led to the disbanding of the regiment, and with his comrades Simmons went to the mines. Here he lived a

Gold dust was plentiful, provisions were high, luxuries were unknown, woman's influence was lacking and "home" was but a memory. In all this Simmons lived, and made fortunes only to lose them, and again to regain them. Wearying at last of the exciting chase after gold dust he married and subsequently settled down to Commissioners.

The Board met in session yesterday and transacted the following business: The petition of B. F. The opinion of the District Attorney in relation to the alleged illegal fees charged by ex-county officers was received and filed. It reads: "I am of the opinion that the statute limitation will run against the recovery of all such sums as shall have been collected by such officers more than two years prior to the commencement of suit."

The proposals for furnishing a safe for the Treasurer and a vault for the Recorder and Treasurer were opened and the one offered by Diebold, Morris & Co., C. C. Powning, agent, accepted. Adjourned until the first Monday in June.

Robertson Furnace.

It is a pretty well admitted fact that this furnace will work any ore found in this county, for about every kind has been thoroughly tested and the result seen by the miners. Mr. Tredway, who has the right of this county, proposes to go to Sacramento in a few days to examine the furnace in active operation there and then return and build one here, just as soon as it is possible. The miners who have seen it work are satisfied that it is what has long been looked for, and are prepared to give it all the work it can do from the start. We expect to see a great activity in all the mining camps around here in consequence.

Interesting Trial.

The trial of the prize fighters occupied the Justice Court all day yesterday. During the entire trial the courtroom was crowded with spectators, who took great interest in the proceedings. At about 4 o'clock the case was given to the jury, who returned a verdict of all guilty, except J. Williams. Sentence will be pronounced Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The prisoners were taken to jail.

Town Trustees.

The Board met yesterday and acted upon a numerous signed petition praying that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the keeping of houses of ill fame on what is known as Douglas Avenue, running east and west from South Virginia to South Centre streets. The request was granted so far as prayed for above.

AN EASTERN IDEA.

The New York Times looked over the San Francisco suicide and divorce list the other day and straightway rendered this judgment:

"They show at what high pressure the people there live. They have, as a rule, no repose; no regular method; no wholesome self-discipline. All the inhabitants from the lowest to the highest, from the poorest to the most prosperous, look to some lucky venture for the golden reward of spasmodic effect. When balked of their aims and hopes they impulsively throw off the life which, for the moment, seems unendurable. What San Francisco needs for healthful development is the acceptance of the idea of regular work, with a proportionate compensation, and the relinquishment of faith in a convulsive and unearned success."

In the time of Julius Caesar Lake Fucino, situated in the Apennines, about fifty miles south-east of Rome and some 2,200 feet above the level of the sea, was a source of great annoyance. It received the rainfall of a large district and was constantly varying in extent, frequently destroying the labors of the tillers of the neighboring soil. Julius Caesar therefore planned the drainage of the lake by a subterranean tunnel, but was killed before this could be done. In the intervening centuries since his death, various speculators have proposed to complete the work, which at length has been admirably carried out at the instance of the great banker, Torlonia, at a cost of $10,000,000. The work has taken twenty-four years, and 35,000 acres of excellent arable land have been redeemed, on which the farmer can expend his labor without fear of inundation. As an engineering feat this ranks very high.

Sol Levy marks all his goods in plain figures at prices which defy competition.
